Television Broadcasts to Start From Mount Wilson This Week

Highest Station in World Ready. First Program by Paramount

Initiating a new phase of modern progress for Southern California communities, television broadcasts will start from the top of Mount Wilson some time this week, it was disclosed by Klaus Landsberg, West Coast Director, Television Productions Inc., a subsidiary of Paramount Pictures Inc.

START IN FEW DAYS

This concern is the first of several television companies which secured sites on Mount Wilson several months ago to complete its installations and while an exact time for the first "telecasts" has not been set, they definitely will be started within the next few days, Mr. Landsberg stated when interviewed at the station site on top of the mountain.

This installation is the highest television station in the world, and stands at a 5800-foot elevation on Mount Alta, the topmost peak on Mount Wilson. Due to its high location it will be able to send telecasts into homes over the entire Southland area.

TELEVISION PIONEER

Although the firm has operated a local television studio in Hollywood for the past three years, with the completion of its Mount Wilson station, one of the first of its type in the United States, Television Production Inc., becomes a real pioneer in the field of communications. Mr. Lands-

The Board of Directors will meet this evening at the home of the President, Robert Green.

Robert D. Dodge and Noren Eston were selected to represent the club as debaters with the South Pasadena club at their meeting yesterday. The question was "Is it More Advantageous to Live in a Large City than a Small Town?"

Our Public Library

Sierra Madre, from its earliest beginning, has always been noted for its good work.

Over all its early years the Churches, the Library and the School, and later the Woman's club and Red Cross were the center of all activities.

All social events, amateur plays, Church suppers were given to raise money for the Library or Churches.

The little Episcopal Church blew down shortly after it was built, and the next day the gallant Church members stood amid the ruins and planned a new and better Church which was started immediately. Later the new Church became too small for its congregation and was enlarged.

When the old Congregational Church out-grew its usefulness, a large and substantial edifice was erected on the other side of the boulevard with adequate facilities for a large congregation and all modern church activities.

The little wooden Church of the Catholics on Highland Avenue, was very soon inadequate and now the fine Church on the corner takes its place, the imposing tower a landmark for miles around.

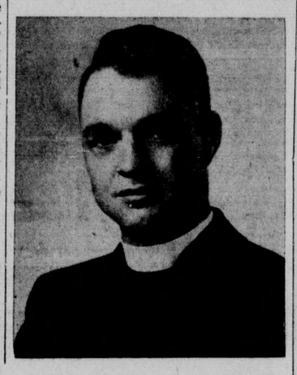

When another Church was deemed necessary the Bethany

The work of pouring the cement for the foundations of the new Youth Center building was completed Sunday and the floors will be poured on Sunday, March 24. This work must all be done in one day and Recreation Commissioner Clarence G. Huntsinger states he will need a lot of volunteer workers. At least 20 men will be required.

LEE SHIPPEY TO SPEAK SCHOOLS PROGRAM APR. 12

The 27th annual observance of California Public Schools Week will be April 8-13. This movement was inaugurated by the Masonic organization to make the public more conscious of the public schools. Locally, a program on April 12 will be the feature of the week. Our own Lee Shippey will be the principal speaker at that time, and opportunity will be given for room visitation. To advertise the week the pupils of the local school are preparing posters which will soon appear in the windows of the local business houses. Prizes for the most appropriate posters will be presented at the program on April 12.

Chamber of Commerce Officials Study Business Section Unified Architecture

Plans for Summer Discussed By Recreation Commission

At a meeting of the Recreation Commission Tuesday evening, steps were taken to prepare a recreational program and budget for the summer season to be presented to the City Council.

Various organizations are asked to submit their future recreational plans and whether financial support will be required, so that all such activities may be co-ordinated under the direction of the Recreational Commission.

A meeting was held Monday afternoon by the Directors of the Chamber of Commerce with A. L. Suman, chairman of the committee on Unified Architecture in the business district, who had secured Robert E. Alexander, an architect and member of the Los Angeles Planning Commission to be present.

Mr. Alexander said that a preliminary survey, with aerial photographs, etc., should be made. Second a master plan should be developed that ties in with the city building and zoning ordinances and then draw up a long range planning program, together with the City Planning Commission.

At their meeting next Monday evening, the Board of Directors will hold a dinner meeting with Mr. Alexander to hear more about contemporary community planning. All interested persons, members or otherwise, are invited to attend, and should make reservations by calling A. L. Suman, CU. 5-4531 before Saturday.

It is stressed that the Chamber Directors have no idea of forcing anything down the throats of possible builders or those planning to remodel, no attempt to make Sierra Madre a Wilshire Boulevard or a Westwood but they wish to develop a plan that will be workable and co-operate and advise and be of as much assistance as possible and if a co-ordinated unified plan can be worked out to better advantage, without perhaps additional expense, the property of all would be more valuable and our city more sightly and modern.

Aladdin Lamp At Work in Our City

Richard Hawks, President of the Hawks Manufacturing Co., announces that the preliminary work for the erection of the new building, immediately to the east of their present plant, is completed. Excavations have all been made, and floors have been laid and the steel for the building is on the ground.

The Latistell Corp. of California plans to start work Monday morning and states that the building should be completely erected before nightfall.

The new building will be of strictly modern, fire-proof and really a show place when completed, and will provide much

Girl Scouts Celebrate Birthday

This week, March 12-19, America's Girl Scouts celebrate their 34th birthday. In the years since 1912, they have grown from 12 girls and two leaders to the present membership of more than a million.

For 34 years the organization has been working to build up an understanding among the girls of the world, based on their mutual interest in Scouting. Juliette Low believed the movement she founded in this country would develop into a strong force for international peace and friendship and today we find that the emphasis on a world sisterhood of Girl Scouts was foresighted.

In the light of the Girl Scout record of work for international friendship the local organization has made and filled friendship bags and illustrated a world map, assisted by Mrs. W. R. Smythe and other leaders, showing where the funds given by the girls themselves will be distributed in memory of Juliette Low, the founder.

Each member of the local organization will bring a birthday gift of as many pennies as she is old to be sent to Girl Guides in other countries, and she must earn this money herself. Strings from the large map in the Red Cross rooms lead to the cities and countries where the pennies will go. The Brownies selected Europe, other Troops have taken China, Africa, etc.

Girl Scouting in Sierra Madre has grown to 10 Troops, with 118 registered Scouts, 15 leaders, 15 Council members, 19 Troop committee members or a total of 168 individuals interested in the work. Last year the number was 135.

Interest in both Girl and Boy Scouting is growing so rapidly and is so valuable that definite plans for adequate carrying on the work should be made. More leaders are needed. Many parents feel their responsibility ceases when they send their children to the meetings or camps, but the Scout leaders are not nursemaids. They are voluntarily giving of their time strength and ability that our youth may be benefited.

There are many girls who wish to become Scouts but cannot be taken care of without more leaders. The parents would get into closer contact with their children if they would enter into their play and social life. Several local organizations are considering the plan of each club sponsoring a group or Troop.

The building which is being erected is a good start but woefully inadequate. It is unfortunate that Bruce McGill was not backed up as he should have been and the $8,000, set as a goal, reached instead of about $2,000 which merely pays for the materials that go into a small building. But the Sierra Madre spirit will yet win. Volunteer labor is going into the building and a larger building will come.

Scouting is character building and now that the war activities have let up, let's do something for our own boys and girls.

Pet Lovers Seek Answer Dog Problem

PUBLIC INVITED TO IMPORTANT MEETING CITY HALL MARCH 21

A movement started by a small group of women and children interested in the problem of uncared for pets has grown to a city-wide interest. It has been heart breaking to animal lovers to think of a dog catcher being turned loose in the city again. It has been very sad to find someone's beloved pet, existing on the scant, dirty fare of the dog pound.

The group with the assistance of the California Federation for the Protection for Children and Animals, asks the privilege of solving the local problem. A meeting has been set for Thursday evening at the Council Chambers in the City Hall at 7:30 p.m. This will be an educational meeting. If you wish to hear of the psychological effects of animals in homes and hospitals, rest homes and asylums come to the City Hall, March 21.

If you want to know of the Humane Education in the schools —the care and feeding of birds and Animals—Come to the City Hall, and hear Mrs. Verna Hayward, President of the C.F.C.A.P.

Children come to the City Hall if you are interested in becoming a member of the Junior League for the care and protection of Animals.

Prizes will be given to the first two children who take an animal out of the 'shelter' and give him a good home.

Everybody is welcome—Come to the City Hall.

No Set Time to Hook Up With Sewers

It will not be necessary for property-owners to connect their homes within any specified period to the laterals of the new county sanitation districts, Chief County Sanitation Engineer A. M. Rawn announced last night.

If home-owners wish to continue using cesspools, instead of hooking up with the new system, they may do so, Mr. Rawn declared. However, if in the meantime the cesspools become a "public health menace" owners will be compelled to join the sewer system.

Voters will go to the polls next month to approve bond elections

Azusa Hotel Sold to Local Couple

Completion of the sale of one of the oldest of Azusa's business buildings was announced this week. It is the Brunjes hotel, located at the corner of Foothill and Azusa Avenue where it has stood since 1892.

New owners of the hostelry are Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Suman of Sierra Madre, who also operate the pottery works located in the Arcade building here.

The hotel was originally built in the late 1880's near the corner of Citrus and Broadway, on the site of the proposed town of Gladstone.

When the tracks of the Santa Fe railway were laid on the Glendora-Azusa route, bypassing Gladstone many of the town's buildings—the Brunjes hotel among them—were moved to Azusa.

The hotel was built originally by John Brunjes, father of the Misses Emma and Gesina Brunjes, the former owners.

Whether the structure is to continue as a hotel is unknown at this time. Azusa Herald March 7.

Red Cross Makes Goal in One Week

Last Saturday morning it was the privilege of the local chapter of the American Red Cross to wire the area headquarters at San Francisco that Sierra Madre's 1946 Red Cross goal had been achieved. This goal was made in the week which was set aside by the local chapter for a concerted drive.

While our goal has been made, those who have not yet made their contributions should remember that the national drive is to continue through the month of March. The American Red Cross is an American institution which should be supported by every American.

On the behalf of the local chapter I wish to express our thanks to the community for its support, and to the many workers for their splendid work.

Daughter of First Library Pres. Writes "Why New Library"

Mrs. Edith Blumer Bowen, a member of the School Board, from whose pen appears an article concerning the new Library building in this issue of the NEWS, is a daughter of John George Blumer, one of the early settlers of Sierra Madre and the first President of the Library Board. Mrs. Bowen resides on Marlborough Terrace, an old English name, which street was named by her mother, the family coming here directly from England. Her father bought a large tract of land here, built his home and raised citrus fruit.

May Allow City to Annex Ranch

An almost capacity audience was present at the Council meeting Tuesday evening, many being interested in the annexation of the Hastings Ranch, including representatives of the School Board, Chamber of Commerce and others.

Postmaster Durning started the ball rolling by stating that this city is in line for a new $85,000 Post Office building but we will never get it if we stifle the growth of the city but the annexation of the Hastings Ranch would almost guarantee it. We are now a second class office but we could become a first class.

Letters from the Chamber of Commerce and School Board were then read asking that a survey be made to determine how much water and other services could be secured, which would give Sierra Madre facts on which to ask for the annexation.

Supt. Korsmeier stated that the assessed valuation of the city is decreasing while expenses are increasing and stressed the necessity of maintaining the financial income of the district to keep up the standard of education. The assessed valuation is down to less than $7,000 per pupil, where authorities estimate it is necessary to have $11,000 per pupil. The present schools are overcrowded now and additional rooms are needed.

Asked by Councilman McGill what effect it would have if we lose the $3,000 now paid by the Ranch, Mr. Korsmeier replied it would necessitate an immediate tax rate boost of at least 10 cents.

After considerable discussion Mayor Schwartz suggested the city accept the proposal of Har-

Ships Odd Signal

One of the oddest signals flown by a ship is the white paying-off pennant which is hoisted on a British naval vessel to show that it is homeward bound to be put out of commission, says Collier's.

Although this pennant is only two inches wide, its length is equivalent to that of the ship, which may be hundreds of feet. Therefore, a small balloon has to be attached to the end of the ribbonlike streamer to keep it in the air.

Leeside—

By LEE SHIPPEY
(In Los Angeles Times)

When Sis Seymour startled her parents by announcing her engagement they had visions of losing their only daughter. But that was before they fully realized the housing shortage and the scarcity of materials.

THOSE PRIORITIES

At first it looked bad because Bob was an ex-serviceman, and everyone knows ex-servicemen can get priorities on other things besides the girls. Bob acquired a lot and started right in to build a little house into which they could move when they married. As it was a small house it wouldn't reqquire a lot of materials. To be conservative, though, they put off the wedding for six months in order to be sure the house would be finished.

Things seemed to break pretty well for them. They got materials for the foundation and enough lumber to put up the framework of the house. Some of it was green lumber which could warp overnight and some was used lumber, but these days all lumber looks good and they were happy. All they had to do was get some masons and carpenters and go ahead.

SECRET AGENTS

They soon learned that what one needs to get a mason or a carpenter is a priority with the F.B.I. Builders could teach enemy secret agents how to hide from those seeking them, and when you find one he still can dodge behind an alibi. He tells you of all the other jobs he has and finally agrees, if you persevere, that he will get around to you in about five weeks. But that little word "about" is as full of unsuspected meanings as any trick word in a Hollywood movie contract. When the five weeks is up he says it still will be three weeks more because he had an attack of flu. Whether he did or not no one can argue against that excuse

However, in three months the house was up and in their innocence Bob and Sis thought the minor task of putting in plumbing, heating, plastering, painting and so on would take only a few more weeks, so set the wedding day for February 3.

LITTLE THINGS COUNT

The house wasn't finished by the wedding day, but they thought if they took a month's honeymoon it would be when they got home. So they took a motor tour to Canada, via Death Valley and Lake Tahoe, and came home bronzed and happy—to find the plasterers just starting to work. Still there was no plumbing and no stove, but one room was finished so they could live in it.

"We can toast cheese sandwiches on a hot plate and drink milk, in our one-room apartment," said Sis gayly. "But why isn't the sink finished?"

"No priority for a drainboard," said the carpenter. "Dash down tomorrow morning. Bob, get a priority and a drainboard and I'll have your sink in tomorrow night."

GETTING A PRIORITY

Bob found getting a priority isn't a matter of a few minutes. It is an all-day session of filling out forms, setting forth your financial standing, the ceiling price on the house, the color of your great-grandmother's hair, proof that you don't owe any income tax, your susceptibility to poison oak and everything between those extremes the master mind that drew up the forms could think of. Bob had to go home for more information and return the next day. But he is a persistent young man and finally completed all the forms.

"Now give me my priority for a drainboard," he demanded.

"Oh, these forms have to be sent to headquarters for checking. Come back in about a month."

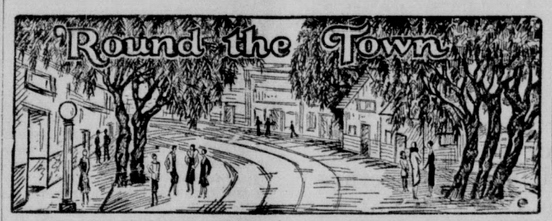

WAY OF PHILOSOPHERS

The young couple were slightly discouraged. But Gregory Seymour, the canny Scot, found comfort in the situation—as philosophers always can in other people's troubles.

"No one has to keep up with the Joneses now," he said. "If you have no rug on the floor and use a cracker box as a dining table you need not apologize, for many of the best people are doing it If you live in Shantytown many of the best people will envy you your roof and beg you to find them a place there. The new social fad is to try to outbrag others in the hardships you are enduring cheerily. And as long as you have to come home to mother for baths and many other things we haven't lost our daughter."

DR. PRITCHARD TOLD GROUP OF EARLY HISTORY

An enjoyable evening of recreation and fellowship was spent by about 30 men last Thursday at the Parish House of the Church of the Ascension. Following a nine inning game of "dart baseball" the men listened attentively to a splendid talk by Dr. Arthur O. Pritchard dealing with the early history of Sierra Madre. Refreshments were later served by the committee for this meeting consisting of Roy Parkes, Jim Henze and Hall Perry.

Parents Urged to Help in Prevention Measles Epidemic

Unless parents are on the alert to promptly isolate children with symptoms of upper respiratory infection, a preliminary symptom of measles, there is danger of the disease increasing to epidemic proportions, Los Angeles county health department warned this week.

"Health authorities have not found an effective immunization procedure for the prevention of measles, such as there is for smallpox, diptheria, and whooping cough.

The health officer recommends that in instances of exposure, the administration of immune globulin offers protection for a short time. Given early in the incubation period, it serves to prevent the disease and given later in the incubation period, it serves to lessen the severity of the attack This protection should be given pre-school children especially, as this is the age where measles takes the highest toll.

While measles, under the California state health code is not quarantinable, cases must be reported to the nearest health office.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Green with their three-year-old daughter, Joanne, are the new residents at 823 Canyon Crest Drive. Mr. and Mrs. Green bought the home of the Mr. and Mrs. Eber Thomas. Mr. Green says they came to Sierra Madre to live because they drove up here and fell in love with the city. During the war Mr. Green was in ship building and rocket production and has now moved his own business from San Pedro to Sierra Madre. He is in the interior tiling and Marbistone equipment business.

FRANK KARR OF PACIFIC ELECTRIC ACCEPTS NEW WORK IN WASHINGTON

Frank Karr, former Vice-president and Chief Counsel of Pacific Electric Railway, has been appointed General Counsel for the American Transit Association with headquarters at Washington, D. C.

Since his retirement from Pacific Electric about a year ago, Mr. Karr has been retained by the company to carry to conclusion several important matters in which he was engaged. With his new appointment, his association with Pacific Electric, extending over a period of more than 40 years, is terminated, although in his new office Mr. Karr will take with him his vast fund of railroading experience.

Accompanied by Mrs. Karr, he left for Washington, D. C., recently.

Beware German And Jap Guns

German, Italian, and Japanese firearms that are being sent to California in large numbers by GIs in occupation forces are war souvenirs and should be regarded as such.

There is risk, always, when such weapons are used for hunting unless proper cartridges and shells are secured for them.

Japanese guns are likely to be of poorer grade and authorities have stated that American-made ammunition cannot be fired from them with safety.

ARGENTINA HOLDS ELECTION . . . Strong man Col. Juan Peron, dictator of Argentina, right, who appeared by early returns to have been defeated for the presidency by Dr. Jose P. S. state department as an aid in the "friendly neighbor" policy in Latin America.

CALIFORNIA'S FOSSIL HERITAGE WILL PROVE FASCINATING TO MANY

Life in California before the dawn of history, will be the subject of a popular talk by Dr. Chester Stock, head of Section of Earth Science of the Los Angeles County Museum.

This talk will be given in the Museum-Exposition Park, Sunday afternoon, March 17th at 3 o'clock. It will cover the giant reptiles and mammals living in California during pre-historic times and will be illustrated by slides.

Dr. Stock who also is associated with the California Institute of Technology, is a world authority on vertebrate paleontology.

Veterans Problems A House

"Can you find me a house?" "I want to get married." "We don't want to live with our folks, there's a big family there and it's just impossible—well you know a man has a mother and a wife and they are different and I know it won't go." These words with an appeal in the veteran's face made you know how he meant it. There is no house. Several weeks later the story of the veteran's marriage was in the paper.

"Where are they living?" This is a puzzle that cannot be solved by the counselor alone but needs the co-operation of all good citizens. It has been estimated that there are many places that could be made livable if the owners felt so disposed. Perhaps a house made into two apartments, or rooms built over a garage.

Many had some heartbreaks while trying to find a home and make it livable before the veteran husband returned. One young wife found a three room apartment which was in a disreputable condition. The landlord said she could have the first month's rent for cleaning it and making it livable. After days of real labor at scrubbing and cleaning and yet much happiness for she was preparing for the return of her husband, the landlord said he would have to have the rent from the day she started cleaning because he could get $50 a month for those three rooms.

Coming home and no place to live is a serious problem to our boys; a sort of bitter disillusionment—the same sort of feeling we've all had when left standing while everybody else had a place to rest.

We were here first, true. Can anybody move over? The veterans feel they are entitled to first opportunity to build. Some localities are really doing something to provide homes for veterans and their families.

What is Sierra Madre doing? What is your community doing? What are you doing?

The Frog TALKS about ROBERTS MARKET and Things!

If I knew you and you knew me,
And both of us could plainly see,
And with an inner sight divine
The meaning of your heart and mine,
I'm sure that we both would differ less
And clasp our hands in friendliness.

—Nixon Waterman

"TO KNOW A MAN IS TO LIKE HIM." If in this fast-moving world of ours we would only take time to become acquainted with the people about us, to know their problems, and to pass a bit of encouragement along—well, it takes so little time and helps so much. (This is the Green Frog's philosophy for today!)

CURLY SAYS THAT I MUST GIVE YOU a few suggestions or ideas for the Lenten Season. First of all, we have Loma Linda Health Foods which are tasty and nutritious, even though you may not like foods labeled as being GOOD for you! In this line are Proteena; Vegemeat Steaks, which are tender, meaty cutlets; Nuteena; Vegemeat Burgers, these being minced, gluten hamburgers; and Soya Beans in Tomato Sauce, this last item being one of POP'S favorites—non-fattening and high in protein!

FOR THOSE OF YOU WHO ARE PLANNING meatless menus, I have a few suggestions: shrimp, tuna, oysters, clams and lobster in tin. Every man likes a good clam chowder. Eggs and milk are again plentiful, and the result of a "good" clam chowder is lots of protein and oompf!

WE HAVE A FINE MUSHROOM SOUP labeled Meadowmere. Just cook a package of noodles, add a can of mushroom soup and a can of your favorite fish, AND you have a good casserole dish!

NOW IN MY DEPARTMENT, which is of course the Wegetable Department, there are large, green artichokes, firm broccoli and white cauliflower, which are always at their best in March, and all of which can be served with a cream cheese sauce (delicatessen department); and you can end up with an all-meal dish!

ACCORDING TO LES, Lambs and March are synonymous. "In like a lamb"—you know! Anyway, lamb is now at its best. There's enough on hand to be well-cured and tender! Leg of lamb, shoulder of lamb, breast of lamb, and chops galore; M-m-m-m-m, nothing better!

AS SHORT AS OILS ARE, we are being asked to cut down on them! How in heck can you cut down on something you don't have!

FRESH, GREEN, NORTHERN ASPARAGUS is more plentiful, and is daily more reasonable in price! MOM suggests that you lay several cooked asparagus tips on a slice of boiled ham, fold the edges over, and fasten with tooth-picks. Then, says she, arrange the rolls in a shallow baking dish and cover with a cheese sauce, and heat thoroughly in the oven. Shoestring potatoes, a tossed tomato, cucumber and lettuce salad, go well with this dish! Sounds darn good! I only hope you can get the ham, the cheese, the cucumber AND the tossed tomato!

THE AMERICAN SPICE TRADE ASSOCIATION announces that caroway and poppy seed are coming from Holland and Denmark; small quantities of cuminos seed are being received from Persia; cassia seed is on its way from China; but that it will be a long time before there is an increase in black pepper supplies. However, some spices which were formerly too expensive to import, such as marjoram, thyme, rosemary and celery seed will soon be seen on our shelves due to the devaluation of the French franc. . Give us all these—and much more—and soon we may resume our best cookery!

Let us all so live that when we die even the undertaker will be sorry!

Life with Father at P.-T. A. Meet Friday Evening

Since the program for the P.-T. A. "Fathers' Night" meeting tomorrow evening is to be on Cubbing, and the time coincides with that of the Cub Pack meeting, it has been decided to hold a combined meeting in the school auditorium at 7:30. Two new den mothers together with the new Cubs, will be received into the Pack in a ceremony to be conducted by Cubmaster Richard Lees.

Mrs. Joyce Pierce, representative for the Pasadena Boy Scout Council, will give a talk on "Cubbing," and a Cub film will be shown by Skipper Robinson.

As previously announced, the fathers will take charge of the meeting and serve refreshments after the program. Charles Peterson will preside.

DR. MILDRED STRUBLE of U. S. C. who was heard at the Woman's club yesterday in "Late Books Worth Reading." Presented by the courtesy of Mrs. Robert Bruce McGill, book review chairman.

WEDDING TOOK PLACE AT LAS VAGAS MARCH 9th

Mrs. Dorothy Jacobson, 265 N. Hermosa Avenue, announces the marriage of her daughter, Claire Elyn, to Frederick Taylor, Jr., of Daggett, Calif. The ceremony was performed March 9th at Las Vegas, Nevada. The witnesses to the marriage were Mr. and Mrs. O. R. Jacobson of Barstow.

The bride was attired in a soft grey wool suit with aqua blouse and black accessories.

Mr. Taylor of the Merchant Marine Service will soon leave on an extended cruise and Mrs. Taylor, a graduate of the Sierra Madre schools will resume her high school work at Barstow.

ANOAKIA GLEE CLUB APPEARS AT FESTIVAL OCCIDENTAL COLLEGE

The Glee club of Anoakia Flintridge School will take part in the Musical Festival of Southern California private schools to be held Saturday evening in Thorne Hall, Occidental College. Miss June Linstrum, voice teacher at Anoakia, is coaching the Glee club, which will sing the following numbers: "Silent Hill," Alexander Zonfielitz; "Fair Maid," Sigmund Romberg and "Hiking Song," Beatrice and Mack Krones. "Song of Faith," John Alden Carpenter, will be sung by the combined Glee clubs of all the schools represented at the Festival.

The spot painting which Alfred Dewey made at the Friday night Arts Guild meeting is on view at the News Office. The subject is a well-known character, George Cox, a former chief of police and deputy sheriff of early frontier life. Mr. Cox came to Sierra Madre in 1912 when the population was only 800. His hardest work at that time was guiding hikers to the mountain trails, at least so he told his audience as Mr. Dewey sketched and Lee Shippey programmed the interlocution. Laura Cadmus loaned the sketch to the News being the lucky possessor.

LAWRENCE R. DOUGHTY JOINS CIVILIAN RANKS

Lawrence Richard Doughty, RM 3/c is in the city residing at the home of his mother, Mrs. Linda Bouchard, of 38 W. Laurel. He received his discharge from U. S. Navy Service March 3rd at San Pedro. Lawrence served in Control Comunimcation and served overseas at Waipio Amphibious Base. He was in the battles of Guam, Saipan and Palau. Besides the Asiatic-Pacific and Victory ribbons he has two battle stars and was awarded citation for outstanding work at the invasion of Guam.

Television to Carry 1947 Fete

Tournament of Roses and Football Game Will be Transmitted

Pasadena's 1947 Tournament of Roses Parade and Rose Bowl football game will be transmitted to the nation via television in addition to the other mediums of transmission, Sidney Stortz, vice-president of the National Broadcasting Company advised Tournament officials today.

At the present moment NBC has one of the several television sites on Mt. Wilson but is lacking a permit to broadcast.

MAY GO FROM EAST

If this permit is not obtained by January 1, NBC will televise the parade from New York, Mr. Strotz said. This can be done by taking motion pictures of the event in Pasadena and televising the movies.

The cable that is being laid from coast to coast to permit television to be transmitted from station to station across the continent is completed to Dallas, Tex., and should be in Los Angeles by the first of the year.

NO. 1 ATTRACTION

"So far as we are concerned the Tournament Parade and the Rose Bowl game constitute the No. 1 attraction in the United States and we hope that we will always be in the picture to help carry Pasadena's story to the world," Mr. Stortz said.

At the present time NBC holds exclusive rights to the broadcast of the Rose Bowl football game via radio. Television rights have not been allocated but this question will doubtless be raised at the next meeting of the Pacific Coast Conference.

ST. CATHERINE GUILD HONORS PRESIDENT

St. Catherine's Guild monthly tea was given at the home of Mrs. H. R. Talbot, East Alegria. It was a delightful affair given in honor of Mrs. John H. Robertson of Palos Verdes. The cohostesses were Mrs. C. Carlin Straus and Mrs. Parks. To the surprise of the honoree a miscellaneous shower was presented, having in mind the recent loss Mrs. Robertson experienced when her home burned.

Mrs. Robertson was the house guest of Mrs. Philip Senour, and guest at the Gribenow home.

SUNDAY CONCERT

Barbara Brown, 15-year-old Pasadena violinist, will be soloist in the famed Mendelssohn Violin Concerto to be performed by the Pasadena Civic Orchestra, under Richard Lert, Sunday, March 24, at 3 p.m. at Pasadena Civic Auditorium.

Other works on the program, open to the public without charge, will be Haydn's "London" Symphony and the "Emperor" Waltzes by Johann Strauss.

Doors open at 2:30 p.m. No tickets are required.

Motorists in Mexico are advised that tires are scarce and high priced. Rooms and cabins are at a premium, too, and the only sure way to avoid passing a night in your car is to make reservations well in advance. Some equipment—jacks for instance—are said to be impossible to obtain now in Mexico. However, the motorist who is properly equipped for emergency can tour enjoyably in Mexico.

Plan to Make Santa Anita Ranch a Park

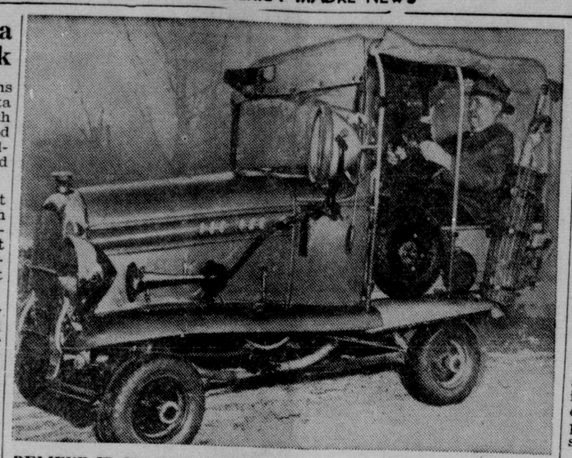

As soon as the county obtains possession of the 110-acre Santa Anita Rancho property just south of Sierra Madre it will be turned over to the California Horticultural Institute for operation and future control.

Negotiations are under way not only for purchase of the lush acareage, but also with the Horticultural Institute as to what terms can be reached for its conversion and future management as an arboretum.

A plan comparable to that now in effect between the Hollywood Bowl Association and county, for operation of the Bowl property on a 99-year lease basis, is favored by the Supervisors.

Contact is being made with Dr. Samuel Ayres, Jr., of La Canada, in reference to the deal with the Horticultural Institute, of which he is arboretum chairman.

According to Supervisor Roger W. Jessup, the owners of the "Lucky" Baldwin home place are asking $3500 per acre, but the county is hopeful of obtaining it for a price ranging from $2500 to $3000 an acre. The county is pledged to share half of the acquisition cost with the State Park Commission.

BELIEVE IT OR NOT—IT RUNS . . . Edward C. Hammond, Newton, Mass., did not let auto shortages stand in his way. With a bit of Yankee ingenuity he concocted his own auto which Hammond calls the "Weep." It has all accessories, including a wicker basket for golf clubs and a series of horns, sirens, bells and light. The builder says that it can go 50 miles on a gallon of gasoline. Hammond is at the wheel of his creation.

'Get Rich Quick' Schemes Fleece Unwary Veterans

Veterans again today were warned by the Better Business Bureau against "get-rich-quick" schemes.

A large percentage of youngsters discharged from the services have made up their minds that it is a simple matter to become a Captain of Industry; that, above all things they must get into a business of their own.

Promoters are ready and waiting to cash-in on this attitude.

The Bureau points to one case as an example: A promoter offered a fine opportunity for veterans. He sold "partnerships" in a tool manufacturing concern. When the total of the "partnerships" sold to veterans was added up, it amounted to 105 per cent of the business. The supposed "partners" paid amounts varying from $200 to $1500.

Steamship deals are being offered by promoters who claim to be connected with old line companies. Former members of the United States Navy are particularly anxious to sink their few hundreds of dollars to get into the steamship business. The Better Business Bureau has traced one such company's activities. Organized a few weeks ago veterans are told by the company's promoter that the company has been sailing ships for 100 years.

The Better Business Bureau will be glad to go over business propositions with Sierra Madre Veterans. A bureau representative is in Pasadena Thursdays at the Pasadena Merchants Association building, 314 E. Union Street.

FISHING NEWS

OCEAN FISHING

Ocean Park—Fair catches of bass and sculpin have been reported with an occasional halibut and lin-cod.

Balboa—Rock-cod fishing has been good according to reports during the past week.

Long Beach—Pier fishermen are taking some good size perch and a few spotfin from Belmont Pier.

Santa Monica—The all day boat operating out of Santa Monica will have daily scheduled runs, starting March 15

There is to be plenty of deep sea fishing for the sportsmen this year. From Santa Barbara to San Diego, the coast is wide open with barges, piers, and sport fishing boats that have not been in operation since before the war.

BASS FISHING

Lake Henshaw—Crappie and bluegill fishing is fair, although some limits of large crappie have been reported taken while fishing from Monkey Island using red and white go-getters drifting at 6 to 12 feet deep. Bass fishing is none too good lately but there are signs that there are plenty of big ones in the lake ready for the summer fishing season. But don't forget that Henshaw is open all year around for fishing.

Lake Mead—Fair landings of bass are rewarding the hard working angler. Best catches made in late afternoon.

Parker Lake (Havasu)—Bass fishing improving steadily out from Roads Ends Camp.

Lower Otay—Otay has really been a hot spot for fishing the past two weeks. Many limit catches of bass have been taken One fellow caught six nice ones from the boat landing while waiting for the boat.

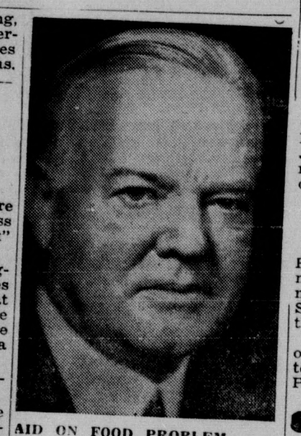

By the way, you folks who are interested in the Lower California fishing: Chris of Chris' Bait House writes this week that fishing at Ensenada is speeding up. Visitors are getting excellent catches and large fish. The season in Mexico, of course, precedes action in local areas.

Eli entered St. Luke Hospital last Friday for surgery and Mrs. Geller will leave for New York the 15th to attend graduation of Stanley from the New York Medical College. CALIFORNIA AIMING FOR ONE OF GREAT MEDICAL CENTERS OF THE WORLD

A hope that the University of California medical center at San Francisco will become "one of the great medical centers of the world" was expressed today by Governor Earl Warren.

The Governor approved a $4,000,000 appropriation for a new science building and new teaching hospital at the institution. He previously had approved a $7,000,000 appropriation for establishing a medical clinic and teaching center at University of California at Los Angeles.

With a modern medical center in both northern and southern California, the Governor said, the State will be nearer a goal of "the best teaching facilities it is possible to develop."

"The basis of all our prosperity and happiness is the health of our people," he added.

It is an alarming fact, reports the National Conservation Bureau, that during recent years accidents took more lives among the young people below 19 years of age than pneumonia, heart disease and tuberculosis together.

to provide funds for the three new county sanitation districts.

The date for District 15, Upper San Gabriel Valley, including Sierra Madre, Arcadia, Monrovia, Temple City and Rosemead has been set for April 23. The amount of the bonds to be voted is $3,547,000.

There are hundreds of new homes within the three districts where cesspools have been constructed. Mr. Rawn issued his statement in answer to queries of these builders, pointing out that there is no regulation requiring home-owners to join sewer systems except when a cesspool becomes dangerous to health. He added that in several older districts there are a number of properties not yet connected with sewer laterals.

SAMPLE BALLOTS DUE

When new homes are built after the sewage system is completed, it is necessary to join the laterals, he said.

Mr. Rawn also stated that although there is no time limit as to when established residences must join the system, it is cheaper for owners to hook up to laterals at a time when streets are torn up for the majority of connections.

Registered voters will within a short time receive copies of a statement of explanation regarding the new systems and a sample ballot, Mr. Rawn declared.

DOGS' ROUND TABLE

The warm spring weather had brought the dogs and cats out under the big spreading pepper tree for their weekly meeting.

Spunky opens the meeting with the question, "What do you all think of the last week since the dog catcher has been around?"

Laddie, with a wail, speaks up, "I wonder what has become of my pals?"

Pork Chops chimes in, "Me too, I keep thinking,—are they tied up? do they have enough water—are they lonely? do they have enough shade to lie in, or are they kept in the sun? what has become of them?

Pee Wee chimes in "Boys that sun can get hot—I wouldn't want to be tied in it."

Black Boomer now speaks up "I wonder if they are being turned into the Pound because their Masters think they can't be bothered to take care of them—You know that's what happened last year in Los Angeles when they put in that Leash Law.

Browin adds his bit, "Oh, why doesn't someone tell these humans how to take care of their dogs and animals—then they wouldn't have to suffer—and all this wouldn't happen."

POLICE BLOTTER

Carl Christensen Injured in Fall.

Boy and Girl, 15 and 18, Married

A purse containing approximately $5.00 was turned into the police station by Derlylee Berg, Mountain Trail Avenue. There are lots of honest people after all. Thieves enter the back yard of a resident and remove parts from automobile of son who is in the armed services. Dirty rats WOULD do that. . . Word received from a State Authority Parole officer to pick up one of our ne'er-do-wells and hold him until the parole officer arrived. . . . After dreaming for weeks about the beauty of his brand new racer bike that he had had for only a short time, "C. V." Hansen was broken hearted to come out of school a few days ago to find that his racer had disappeared from the rack. Sad, but determined to get it back, he first told his father (Carl Hansen) and then the police. With the eyes of a watch dog and the help of a boy pal, "C. V." soon got what he called a "lead" and informed the cops of his luck. The "lead" was followed and resulted in the recovery of his bike. A boy had taken it home "just for a ride," but in taking the ride, he fell and marred the beauty of his face to the extent that he was unable to be at school the next day, which was another good "lead" for the beagles. When Carl Hansen left for the hospital for a serious operation, it helped him greatly to know that "C. V." had gotten back his bike. . . Woodrow Wilson, one of our handsomest policemen, reports "Mr. Thew is going to shoot a rock up in the Canyon at 484 Audubon Way. IMMEDIATELY. (Jim Heasley said "I hope it doesn't come my way!") . . . Former policeman Jerry Fairfield had the misfortune to have his "car" dented by the backing driving of a truck driver. The radiator was leaking when the debris was cleared away. . . Mrs. Reavis, 686 Ramona, lost a white canary. It would be nice if it was found and returned to her. . . The Mesecars go home and leave their front door open. Now, now, George, that's not like you to do that. . . Carl Christensen, of 159 East Laurel, was injured when he fell off a ladder while working in Arcadia. The family was notified by relay from Arcadia to Sierra Madre police. . . . A girl, 15 and a boy, 18 misrepresented their ages and procured a marriage license and then left a note to the girl's mother informing her of their intentions. The mother immediately notified the police and through investigation, the police finally traced the couple to the home of the minister, but they had already been married. The girl was turned over to the mother and the boy, who is a sailor, was turned over to the Navy. They gave their ages as the boy 22 years and the girl as 18 years. . . Joe Russell's Rael Estate office door found unlocked at the same evening that Noren Eaton's was left the same way. Maybe the two exchanged ideas. . . A noisy party reported down W. Mariposa way. It was intended to be in celebration of the "youthful" wedding that was "nipped in the bud." The participants of the wedding were unable to attend for reasons beyond their control. . . Racing cars result in citations to some. . . When Bill Lees, the building inspector, was called to inspect the building of a new house at a certain location, he was somewhat astonished as well as dumbfounded to see a woman with a raised garden hoe chasing a man around the lot. She objected strenuously to the location in which the man decided to build his house next to her's. Her objections were so lusty that she swatted the man across the face. For this unmanly act, she was cited into court for Assault. Right here in SIERRA MADRE. . . Even the Red Cross trusts the cops. With an iron box. . . A lost puppy found, will hold for owner. . . . Explosions on the car tracks would indicate that track cops are being left around carelessly by some one. . . A dog fight resulted in a "dog bite." Mr. Dimit, East Alegria, was bitten severely about his hands by fighting dogs. . . . Mercer Duff gets a call from El Centro. Cops wake him up early on Sunday Mornin'. . . A weed eradictor that possesses a pungent and obnoxious odor was reported as being sprayed around in a certain district. When the cops arrived, they were seized with a constant coughing and choking. The "sprayer" agreed to discontinue the use if it choked the police. It must be pretty bad if it penetrates that far. . . A boy reported down over the side of the mountain near Wilson Peak. Altadena Sheriff's office was called. Their region. . . Two calls in succession that were not police "matter." . . LOST DOG. . . A persistent prowler returns as soon as the police leave. . . Art Udell reports lights out in various sections. . . The dogs at the foot of the mountain continue to cause trouble by barking. . .A sick dog to be taken care of by disposal. . . Wonder when it's gonna rain? Lots more of the same this week, beter save it for next.

SOUTH ELECTS WOMAN . . . Mrs. Helen Douglas Mankin, who was elected as Georgia's first woman representative in a special election to fill the unexpired term of Robert Ramspeck, who resigned. She won over 18 candidates.

Church was built. This Church is known far and wide as the Church built practically by one man who put all his love and devotion into the building of it.

As "Time Marched on" three new Schoolhouses were built, one after the other, to replace the little one-roomed cabin at the corner of Hermosa and Orange Grove Avenue.

The Woman's Club has also been enlarged from time to time, and the Red Cross would love to expand if they could find a building large enough to meet their needs.

So Sierra Madre has kept up with the times, with one exception. Our Public Library, the interesting history of which Miss Pritchard has given you in the last issue of the News.

As I pass the dear old building, with its time-scarred face gazing pathetically at the mountains, I seem to hear it say: "It is my turn now, I have served my time and I am weary, can't you do something for me."

And we can do something very substantial if we vote for the Library funds asked for on April 9th.

Edith Blumer Bowen,
Member of the Library Board.

More than one-fourth of all highway fatalities are caused by liquor, speed, or both. These are considered serious violations in all the states, but somehow, reports the National Conservation Bureau, we hear of more deaths, through these causes than we do of punishment meted out to the offending drivers.

DESIGNS FOR TOMORROW

Build roads today for tomorrow's needs.

That's the advice of a prominent road building engineer. In the past, he points out, we have too often built our highways to meet the existing traffic conditions rather than to accommodate the traffic volume that would be using those roads five or ten years later.

His advice is timely, for unless the huge post-war road construction program of the Federal and State governments is laid out on a long-range basis, we shall find that many new highways will be obsolete by the time they are finished.

There is certain to be a huge increase in the number of vehicles on the road in the next decade. This will call for wider highways, fewer and easier curves, and the elimination of cross roads and railroad crossings where possible. Through proper design, tomorrow's highways can provide swift transportation both for private cars and commercial vehicles.

Building our highways on the basis of probable future needs will contribute greatly to safe driving conditions and it will eliminate the waste of money arising from road construction that is ill-planned and economically unjustified.

PHANTOM FLEET

Some of the "now-it-can-be-told" stories about World War II reveal that fake weapons and equipment were almost as important as the real things in winning the victory. Just before D-Day the Nazis spotted fleets of ships in certain British ports which they presumed would take part in the expected invasion. These "ships" were not made of iron and steel, but of rubber. And they were not filled with men and equipment, but with air. Furthermore, the ports in which they were seen were not the ports from which the real invasion armada set out for France. These ships were built by American rubber manufacturers and were as large and approximately of the same design as the real vessels they were "doubling" for. Since this hoax was an important factor in confusing the enemy, the phantom fleet had a part in making the invasion a success although its ships never carried a man or fired a gun.

COURAGE AND INTELLIGENCE

If the farmer sat down on his broken plow and refused to till his fields, or if he sat down on his harvesting equipment and refused to gather his crop, the result would be no different than when men in industry stop production. Food production drops because the efficiency of the farm's operation depends on equipment more than it does on the farmer's back—no matter how strong he may be—because modern farming requires highly specialized equipment. Let it be said that striking does not show intelligence—any machine can be stopped by stripping one of its gears; intelligence is shown when a machine is kept from breaking down. The same holds true of our national economy.

The farmer has shown great strength against great obstacles. Let the men in industry realize that it takes courage to show intelligence and uninterrupted production, as contrasted with lack of intelligence which calls a strike and paralyzes production.

Through five years of impending war and actual conflict the American people stood shoulder to shoulder in the common effort to defend their country. But in the past months of world peace they have stood toe to toe in bitter industrial wrangling and dissension among themselves.

Because they were united in those crucial five years America and the world survived. Because they have been divided in the past months and seem determined to continue their division, America and the world may fall. That fall will be into a desperate economic chaos.

How can it be that after seeing the great benefits to be derived from unity they have so quickly fallen into disunity? Certainly the people of our country must awake to the tragedy of internal dissension. They must reconcile their differences, wipe out division and go forward together to win the peace.

The price of disunity is too great even for this great Nation to pay.

REVAMP CONGRESS?

Congress hasn't overhauled its legislative machinery since 1893. And things have changed "quite a bit" since then. The boys on Capitol Hill are trying to do business in this dizzy, dynamic age with their old horse and buggy methods.

One of the biggest faults among the many in the congressional procedure is that congressmen have too many things to do—at the same time. For instance, a senator may be a member of three or four important committees. It is not unusual for two of these committees to meet simultaneously. During that hour an important debate may be taking place in the Senate. As a result, he must either divide his time among the three meetings and not be fully informed on what is going on in any of them, or else he must stick to one and ignore the others. Neither arrangement is desirable.

Another, and more glaring weakness in Congress, is the seniority system which awards membership on the most important committees and assigns the chairmanship of committees solely on the basis of length of service.

Under this method the elderly congressmen from the Southern states who are returned to office time after time hold the key positions. Some of these men are competent and progressive, but some of them are not.

A system of rotation would give younger and sometimes abler members an opportunity to serve in important posts and it would do much to rejuvenate many of the "creaking" committees.

Congress alone can make changes in its legislative machinery. But in view of the antiquity of that machinery we think the question should be put to the lawmakers: How about a thorough streamlining job—now?

UN-AMERICAN?

In a recent speech Henry Ford II declared that an effort must be made to correct the belief held by too many persons that it is un-American for business to earn a profit. He pointed out that only through a fair profit can reserves be set up for expansion, research and contingencies.

It is not a healthy situation when businessmen have to re-sell the public—or even part of it—on the rightness of the profit motive.

AROUND AND ABOUT

By EDWARD LLOYD VOORHEES

England—CHESTER AND KING GEORGE V—Our little passenger ship, the Cambria, was a clean, fast steamer, capable of 25 knots, and as as I stood at the stern watching the Emerald Isle grow gray and dim against the fading evening sky in the west my thoughts were torn between my still warm memories of Dublin and my keen anticipation of England. What would it be like, actually? I knew that my conception of that ". . . snug little island . . . A right little, tight little island" was a romantic one—how could it be otherwise, when my school days and teaching days had been filled with readings and discussions on the Englishman's stout and steady stand for personal freedom ever since Magna Charta, my imagination fed and fired by that glorious body of narrative and lyric poetry and prose from Beowulf to Rudyard Kipling and Rupert Brooke? Nor had I forgotten the image created in my mind from the day when my English teacher first read aloud to our class in Shakespeare old John of Gaunt's apostrophe to Britain in "King Henry II:"

"This royal throne of kings, this scepter'd isle,
This earth of majesty, this seat of Mars,
This other Eden, demi-paradise;
This fortress built by Nature for herself
Against infection and the hand of war;
This happy breed of men, this little world,
This precious stone set in a silver sea,
Which serves it in the office of a wall,
Or as a moat defensive ts a house,
Against the envy of less happier lands;
This blessed plot, this earth, this realm, this England. . ."

To be sure, that is what some might call today "a pretty piece of boasting nationalism"— but quite pardonable as coming from Shakespeare in the days of "good Queen Bess" and less than ten years after the Spanish Armada had failed so spectacularly in its attempt to invade and crush England, certainly somewhat appropriate since Napoleon's unsuccessful attempt to do the same thing, and surely doubly applicable today after the German Reich's second failure to take that island fortress.

But mixed with my admiration were remnants of boyhood lessons in "history books" about George III, "taxation without representation," the Boston Tea Party, the Declaration of Independence, Valley Forge, and that great moment when "we licked the British at Yorktown." And there was also the question of personal relations. What had Sidney Smith, English clergyman, critic and wit, meant when he had asked, "Who ever reads an American Book?" — though of course that was a hundred years ago! And were there still people in Britain who looked down upon us Americans as "Colonials" and were likely to be condescending,

LOTS OF HOT WATER
YOUR AUTOMATIC GAS WATER HEATER REPLACES IT IN A HURRY, TOO!

Plenty...FOR AN AUTOMATIC DISHWASHER!

Meal upon meal . . . dish after d-i-s-h . . .
The monotonous routine of the dishpan . . .
Over and over again . . .
An ACRE of dirty dishes a year!

A SUGGESTION, PLEASE: You can make the dinner dishes a snap! However you do them . . . by hand or by a modern automatic dishwasher...make PLENTY of really hot water a "must"!

And it's yours to command, on tap every instant of the day or night—

An Automatic Gas Water Heater—adequately sized—provides plenty of hot water for today's improved standards of living: an automatic dishwasher, an automatic washing machine—with plenty to spare for extra bathrooms, household cleaning and all the rest.

A Storage Tank that's big enough is the important thing! The average modern family calls on hot water 140 times a day. They not only need a practical, adequately sized storage tank—it's a long-lasting economy!

Too Small a tank calls for constant reheating at high temperatures. This weakens the galvanized tank-lining and frequently causes premature failure. Costly replacement can be avoided by getting the correct size the first time.

So Ask your dealer about your family's minimum hot water requirements. His Storage Tank Capacity Guide is your assurance that the hot-water service in your household will be really unsurpassed!

Around & About

if communicative, but more likely to be "aloof," etc, etc, etc? Well, frankly I didn't believe it; and I was resolved to conduct myself as usual on the basis of "live and let live," to respect and abide by the customs of the country which was my host, to accept differences, if any, as normal and not hostile.

Before our ship had gone many miles I got into conversation at the rail with an Englishman of excellent address and pleasant personality—I believe he spoke to me first—who revealed in the course of our hour's talk that he was a commercial traveller, expressed his pleasure that I was making a stay in England, gave me friendly references to his two brothers-in-law, caterers at Bath, told me he had a son at home who was very fond of America, and gave me a most cordial invitation to spend a week-end soon at his suburban home near London in Kent, giving me his address and all necessary directions. I expressed my very real appreciation of his offered hospitality, and though letters of introduction from friends in America and the press of circumstances prevented my acceptance of Mr. S.'s invitation I have never forgotten that cordial welcome to England—which occurred in the middle of the Irish Sea!

The sixty-mile sail to Holyhead (pronounced approximately Hollyhead), on a small island off the coast of the large island of Anglesey at the point of northwest Wales was ended in time for a good night's sleep on terra firma at the comfortable Railway Hotel. Then in the gray of the early morning I was watching from my train window the misty shores of Anglesey, the gray waters of the Menai Strait as we crossed into Wales proper, with occasional rays of sunshine darting through the rolls of mist which surrounded but did not completely conceal old Snowdon's rugged peak to our right as we chugged eastward through old Bangor and other stone-built towns with such puzzling names as Llanfairfechan and Penmaenmawr, on through the vast confines of Conway Castle's crumbling walls, on through Holywell and along the shore of the broad estuary of the River Dee, where occurred in 1637 the drowning of Edward King, John Milton's friend and the inspirer of "Lycidas." Then the ancient and interesting-looking city of Chester—where for the first time I stepped out of the train upon English soil and wrote as the first line in my diary: "England at last!"

Inquiry at the station informed me of the fact that the famous Chester Royal Agricultural Fair was opening that day, that the King and Queen were expected at any moment, and that there was not a vacant room left in any hotel in town. Did that bit of news "feaze" a Yankee from the erstwhile Colonies? Answer: Not for long, old top! After I had checked my baggage at the station, a half-hour's diligent search on foot procured me modest but adequate "lodgings" in the cottage of a kind-hearted and motherly widow on Princess Avenue, whose charges for room and breakfast were the modest sum of 7/6—and "a spot of tea to rest me" at once. So, I was soon strolling up Grosvenor Street, Chester's central thoroughfare, which in honor of approaching Majesty was that morning gay with fluttering banners, pennants, and the royal arms supported by the lion and the unicorn.

With the wide fluctuation of temperatures and general weather conditions usually coming with March, the National Conservation Bureau warns that this time of year frequently brings the worst epidemics of colds and flu.

Tourists are advised that, due to a railroad strike of long duration, gasoline is scarce in some parts of Mexico, particularly in the north and center of the Republic. The only way to avoid being detained anywhere from a few hours to a day or more, warns the Touring Department of the National Automobile Club, is to have your gas tank filled when gas is available, usually in the large cities, and to carry 15 to 20 extra gallons in cans in the car.

ADMIRAL HALSEY RETURNS TO THE PACIFIC—Fleet Admiral William F. Halsey, Jr. U. S. N. Ret., has been elected a vice-president of Pan American World Airways. He will head all Pacific and Alaskan operations from headquarters in Los Angeles, San Francisco, and Seattle. Service will be resumed between Los Angeles and Honolulu on March 15 with Constellation Clippers, soon to be replaced by giant 80- passenger Boeing Strato-cruisers, "Big Brother" of the B-29, spanning these important routes to the Orient and Australia.

"Yes is for A Very Young Man" at Pasadena Playhouse

World premiere of Gertrude Stein's "Yes Is for a Very Young Man" turns the international drama spotlight on Pasadena Playhouse from March 13 to 24.

Set in Savoy it is backgrounded by war, but only as it affects the lives of two households, one French, the other American. It is a drama of the "little people," of their war-twisted lives and thoughts.

NAZI UNDERGROUND

Before the end of the war it was predicted that the Nazis, when beaten, would go underground and await an opportunity to return to power.

Evidence that this has been done is accumulating. The recent murder of three American Army officers in Passau, Eastern Bavaria, has given rise to the belief that the underground, which has largely confined its activities to threats and beatings of Germans who collaborate with Americans, may now be resorting to greater violence directly against the occupation forces.

U.S. Army Intelligence officers are not certain that the murders were committed by Nazis. They could have been perpetrated by other Americans involved in the German black market which the plain men were investigating. But this crime has brought into sharp focus the growing task of keeping the thousands of idle ex-soldiers and Nazi youth under control.

When he left Germany last October, General Eisenhower called attention to this problem. The reduction in our occupation forces has made control of the German people more difficult.

Handbills have been printed and put into circulation by the underground which warn "faithless" German girls against fraternizing, and which repeat Hitler's doctrines. "National socialism is not asleep," they warn.

We had better not be either if we don't want another world war.

FIRE FLAMES

At the last meeting of the firemen,—and I have been one of them for more years than I like to realize,—there occurred one of those situations which sadden the hearts of many people. The Constitution and By-Laws of the department stipulate that a member who becomes a candidate for public office must resign from the organization. A letter was redo not, however, allow this, so he that, inasmuch as he is a candidate for the Council, he be given a leave of absence. The rules do not however, allow this, so he plans to send in a letter of resignation to the next meeting. We had to face the fact that our oldest and most reliable fireman can no longer be a member. "Shorty" has been on the force for 25 years and is our most beloved member He has always been a leader in the fun that breaks the monotony of business. His ability to start an argument and then turn it into laughter will be missed and never forgotten. This sort of thing is needed in any organization. Our men are not paid, and they must get fun enough out of the meetings to compensate. One of the reasons our department has stayed together so long and has been so well attended is because of "Milt" and others like him. We hope that there may be a way to influence him to attend our meetings, even though elected to office. His loss as a fireman is a real loss, not only to us but to the city of Sierra Madre. We only hope he will continue to answer fire calls, the same as in the past. He will always be welcome. The meeting of last week required much ruling of the Chief to keep members from wandering from the subject at hand Lasting long into the night, it reminded some of us of days gone by. Immediately following the consummation of doughnuts and coffee, Eber Thomas invited a certain group to a special party held in the firemen's quarters. It has still been undetermined as to the reason for such a celebration nor has it been definitely learned why such exclusiveness, but to Harold Spears, Bill Estes, Joe Grippi, Fred Lewis, Ray Penn and Jim Heasley, there is little doubt as to his "point." They will hesitate and consider his exclusive invitations in the future.

The improvement in the cooperation of residents in regard to burning out in the open has been remarkably noticeable and highly commendable. Many fire hazards are being eliminated. Now is the time to get rid of accumulations of tree trimmings and such that have piled in the back yards. Later will be too late and right now the fire department is much more lenient with fire permits than during the coming dry season. Even though many think it foolish to even think that a permit is necessary, the ordinance, the judge and the firemen may think differently. It is best that we all work together and keep the FIRES OUT

According to the National Conservation Bureau, less than half of the 1,928,000 miles of county and local roads serving our vast agricultural areas have all-weather surfaces.

An appropriate period of silence was observed to honor the memory of Homer L. Chaillaux, Adjutant of the Department of California, who had become nationally known as the arch-foe of all isms except Americanism. The passing of Comrade Henry Faller, a member of the Sierra Madre Post, was similarly observed.

At the suggestion of James Kelleher, the Commander agreed to appoint a committee to work with the Veterans of Foreign Wars and other service organizations for the purpose of building a hall suitable for housing local veteran's groups of oll wars and their women's auxiliaries.

Interesting motion pictures depicting the work of the Forest Fire Fighters Service were presented through the courtesy of Arthur M. Udell and members of the U. S. Forest Service.

The Commander of the Post presented his plans for a joint meeting of the Legion and its Auxiliary, to be held in the Dug Out at 8 p.m., Wednesday, March 20th. Colonel C. Wesley Boag will deliver a brief but interesting address at this meeting. All service men and their wives are cordially invited to listen, participate and eat.

needed space for this rapidly expanding industry.

Sierra Madre is fortunate in having such a plant located here as it furnished much local employment and contrary to many plants engaged in war work, the local organization is going ahead and increasing capacity instead of decreasing. They have received orders for 350 hydraulic motors from Lockheed Aircraft Corp. of Burbank, for use on the Constellations, and have completed and delivered 100. The motor is entirely the design and manufacture of the Hawks Co. and is an 8-cylinder radial type motor which may also be used for pumping purposes.

old Conkling, consulting engineer, in his letter of recent date, at a sum not to exceed $3,000, to make a survey of existing and possible water supplies, at a cost not to exceed $3,000.

Mr. Conkling prepared the findings in the famous Raymond Basin water suit and is familiar with local conditions and is considered an authority on water matters.

Councilman Hoegee, seconded by Councilman Schiltz, then made a motion that the city engage Mr. Conkling to make the necessary survey in accordance with his proposal and it was unanimously adopted.

Mrs. H. C. Reavis addressed the Council on behalf of a group of citizens interested in the paving of Ramona from Park to Michillinda and the City will furnish the labor and equipment and the property owners are to pay for the material.

The City Attorney was instructed to draw an ordinance changing the name of Grove Alley to Grove Lane.

A letter from Jos. T. Swanson stated that children swarmed over Waterworks park Sunday and removed part of a distributor on the oil tank, removed keys and tampered with battery cables. "Unless supervisors keep them on the property allotted to them, they will be a source of trouble to the city," he said.

A public meeting will be held at the School Auditorium Monday evening, March 25, to explain the two propositions which will be on the ballot at the municipal election April 9, the city employees' pension plan, and the public library building fund proposal.

● Television

berg, who has been in television work in this country and Europe for the past 12 years, has supervised all details of the new station. Paramount engineers built the transmitting system.

The tower and antenna stand 75 feet above the ground and will be increased to 150 feet. A two-story building houses two transmitters, one for pictures and one for sound: also a generator for the transforming of Edison Company power from 50 cycles to the 60 cycles needed for modulation frequency television. On the second floor are living quarters which command a view of San Clemente and Catalina Island on a clear day, and are supplied with Butane gas for heating and cooking.

UNAFFECTED BY WEATHER

Exterior of the building fits into the mountain setting artistically and was designed by Mr. Landsberg on plain lines, with construction in natural redwood. A painted green roof completes this rustic structure.

Telecasts may be sent out in all kinds of weather due to heating facilities for the antenna. The building is sheltered by low hills and the transmitting room rests on a foundation of concrete, plywood and linoleum to provide safety for men working with high voltage equipment.

HOME SETS IN FALL

Experimental number for the station has been W6XYZ, but it is to become Station KTLA for commercial purposes. Good news to television fans who are awaiting eagerly the release of home receiving sets is the report from Mr. Landsberg that he had been informed these will be available next August or September.

"Television is no longer around the corner, but is a reality, and we believe we can advance the entire industry through operation of this new station," he declared. Mr. Landsberg has been twice honored with television awards, once by the Television Broadcasting Association for adoptaion of motion picture techniques to television, and a second time by the American Television Society for "consistent technical excellence in television production."
